If there's one thing I've learned from running a database consulting company, it's that we like to work hard and play hard.